* The Negative debater was more prepared and eloquent when speaking.

* The Affirmative debater needs to improve on eye contact, and memorize his arguments or sources.

Difficult decision to choose winner, I agreed with the Affirmative but Negative was more persuasive.

Aff: Prohibit Nuclear Power

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Reva

- Structural Oppression / Poor people
- Renewable energy source, (advanced)

- the argument that renewable solve

.. ~~Unlabeled~~

- Cross Examination → Excellent job of getting Claudia to concede on multiple points
- Set good groundwork for how Claudia can't refute on rebuttal because of previous concession confident, swift pace

Content well researched

Style

Very confident, could benefit from slowing down at times

Feedback: well structured framework / argument

Claudia

- agree w/ phasing out nuclear power & using alternative sources
- Nuclear Power is best way of minimizing Global Warming
- Nuclear Power boosts economy (JAPAN) ~~Unlabeled~~

aff: Prohibit Nuclear Power

Comments & Reason for Decision:

Eric

- ought = morality (Interesting)

Contention

- Nuclear power leads to conflict through proliferation

* Contemplations are NOT normal / appropriate in Lincoln / Douglas Debate * Thought he had 6 minutes in counter but Edward corrected him (4)
 * Said that Edward is only focusing on counterplan

Feedback

good confidence of his research & structure of argument

Style

Steady pace

Standing up may increase his impact. Set down while time.

Content

Edward

Contention

- Nuclear Power is a critical tool to combat climate change
 - MSR's provide a safer nuclear solution & solve nuclear waste

Rebuttal

- Fukushima (Chernobyl) are NOT part of the proliferation 3 mile island

Contemplations & Opportunity Costs are NOT the same thing

Nuclear Power does NOT mean Nuclear Bomb

Feedback

Good use of saying "No" for impact & buying time for response

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Ashley - good eye contact talking very fast

- safety
1. nuclear waste
  2. power accident
- good explanation of dangers - listing all countries = powerful, German govt. reminds us of all accidents
3. weapons - uranium health impacts - lung cancer? needs more proof.

Cross X: ask more questions?
(not statements?)

- Safety is a better value
- good points about where to dump?
- jobs → death
- convinced that accidents will happen, no need for it, neg affects of it.

most convincing

Kimia - very passionate, clear speaker.
Statements, not ?'s during cross ex.

value - justice

• speaking fast

• good eye contact, speaking directly to judge - great job

1. pollution, clean energy nuclear = clean

2. nuclear: jobs

• started off confusing re Iran bill, then ended well

• Very passionate speaking

• assumption of global warming - not defined, proved -

• didn't explain why we need it - what will happen if we don't use it?

• Not convinced ending nuc power will harm us.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

~~Raquel~~ Raquel
 good def of prohibit - good argument about time - 60 yrs?
 good def of utilitarianism + burden of proof Safety - good facts - expected % of accident Chernobyl
 health - good explanation of risks, plutonium, chemicals reversability - good argument
 2. terrorism ↑ - very convincing more uranium in nuclear form → higher risk of terrorism speaking very fast excellent, clear arguments - convincing points + sources
 • Pres Obama + 46 others - ↑ risk
 • good discussion of chemicals, half-life, storage issues
 If Thorium is not being used in real world, this undercuts best part of other argument.
 • subsidies - v good point

~~Raquel~~ Shruti (neg) value - morality
 1. reduces pollution, lowers CO<sub>2</sub> good comparison w/cars avoided death from pollution? - not convinced define LFTR? thorium - recycled, not dangerous, no new mining same benefits, no danger = very convincing 11 → 15% ? explain more • discussion of safety, incl. chemical reactions, other compounds, waste is most convincing clean energy? - this is good info, explain more 30

Raquel

good rebuttal about # of plants, not viable, won't help problem

• renewables are better

• thorium = experimental doesn't solve waste doesn't solve proliferation ~~thorium~~ best argument

if thorium isn't real possibility → other arg's best point falls apart

• better arguments

Shruti

• nuclear = clean energy, but ~~is~~ solar also clean?

• didn't explain viability of thorium?

• clean up cesium - good facts

→ thorium is viable - this is a convincing argument

~~if you~~ can <sup>you</sup> prove nuclear is ~~just~~ just as clean ~~as~~ renewable? we all assume sun, wind is cleanest. Can you prove otherwise?

Both: good looking at judge, speaking to judge

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Aff's first LD debate. ~~Need~~ Philosophical framework is fine, but apply it specifically to nuclear power. Need some evidence & sources (cards, warrants) to bolster arguments. More structured argument would be helpful. Heard no specific factual disadvantages of nuclear power, so must assume it only results in benefits, as outlined by opponent. Benefits both minority & majority. Rape argument not helpful.

Neg - nicely structured argument with evidence. Net benefit clearly for nuclear power - provides jobs, taxes, stable source of power. Thank you for explaining Aff's position to me.

Neg indicated Aff ~~off topic~~ introduced new evidence in last speech. Violation?

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Neg successfully countered Aff's contentions. Nuclear power, even with mining & processing, avoids 64 billion tons of GHGs, saves lives over time. ~~Increased~~ Present & future security surrounding nuclear power plants will prevent terrorist acts. No terrorist acts to date. Indigenous populations given concessions. ~~only slight increase in cancers, negligible.~~ Found Aff 4 minute constructive convoluted. Neg had good sources, restated & refuted Aff's arguments well.

Thank you for an excellent, polite debate.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Both sides did a great job!

Neg's contention ① was challenged by aff for lack of evidence, but neg reiterated their card. So neg Contention ① stands.

Neg contention ② was also challenged based on lack of opportunity in Australia to vote against nuc. pow, but aff countered it as a limited example.

Aff made a good case that Neg did not have a good plan to address nuc. waste dumping sites issue brought up by aff.

Neg addressed aff content'n ① as specific examples of ↑ ambient temp reducing efficiency of nuc. pow. but not a wide-spread phenomenon.

Ultimately, I felt that Neg defended their case better & also used cross-ex time more effectively.

Ass

Justice

Util

① Global Warming - Efficiency of N-plants very related to temp.

② Nuclear Waste - Dumping sites - Radio active racism.

Opponent agreed morality is important

Cross : ✓

Neg : Morality
Social contract

① Banning Nuc. pow → coal pow → pollution, death

② Denying pow to ↑ population is immoral

- countries want more nuc pow to reduce climate change

- few examples, not wide-spread.

- countries should not be allowed to have nuc. pow if they do not have safe places to dump nuc. waste

- issue for another debate

Cross : - Revert to other renewable energy sources,
- Other renewables not as efficient

Ass : ✓ Justice is still a valid concern.

opportunity 'dropped' ?
to vote

②

No specific evidence was given.

there is no soluth. unless there is a counter plan Should not be brushed off

Neg - reiterated card ② nuc pow prevented 1.8m deaths

Ass - Necessary to go in depth on topic of nuc waste dumpsites → Clarified to example in Australia → No counter-plan

 good facts

organized facts & speech reading a little too much from speech speech would be more dynamic if standing vs sitting had good cross examination questions addressed all issues stated from neg

very calm & organized when speaking remembers everything neg stated & addresses it along w/ own contentions stated contentions

 good facts
 organized facts

stated sources for info pointed out some issues at missed questions could have been better stumbled a bit on rebuttal lost track of thoughts a couple of times

a little nervous missed some of the issues at stated

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

RFD: I vote for the Affirmative because I thought his case was stronger throughout the round. The 2nd and 3rd Contentions weren't effectively refuted by the negation.

The negation made some strong points. The 3rd contention was the strongest, in my opinion. When ~~was~~ giving your last speech (negation) you could have gone over why the Affirmative contentions were invalid again.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

RFD: I vote for the Negative because I thought her case was stronger and not refuted by the Affirmative.

I liked that the Affirmative said in the end that she has to show that nuclear power should be banned (and she gave good reasons why) but I still don't think the negation's contentions were refuted. And at the end of the round I am convinced that banning nuclear power would bring about more harms than ~~good~~ benefits.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Tasneem - 1st part you needed to intonate better. Each pt seemed to run into the others. made it hard to follow. You had good points, but intonation made it hard to understand. You got better towards the end of 1st part & much better at the very end.

- you had good questions - esp. question about CO2 emissions
- good point about status quo. & about consequential good vs. utilitarian good
- You said "implant" I think you meant "implement"
- you were the strongest at the end. & you looked up & used your hands really well at end. Try to practice reading out loud with more intonation when you were reading. is where your intonation was monotone.

Ashley - used the computer too much with your hand & eyes looking at computer - the next session I judged they lifted up their computers - maybe try doing that so you can look up from it more often. You intonated well, which made it interesting at looking up to hear when you spoke. You did much better when you used the paper & asked questions & answered questions. I didn't understand your explanation of Kahn's rule. Need to backup CO2 emissions point. You had a good point about if you take away nuclear power there is no other option in many places.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

(Declaration)
 Raquel - I liked that you wrote the main point on the board & introduced yourself. You intonated very well & used your hands well even when holding the computer. You explained Kahn's rule about indian reservations genocide & that you can just move it & affect another location too, & example with smothering in someone else house. Said "super not good at all" - not a great argument. I liked how you agreed with the opponent & then turned it around to help your point

Angela - you had good intonation & volume & enunciation. Try to slow down a little so its more clear. Try not to shift and move - it distracts from what you are saying. The argument about 5 countries was good & that nuclear power is required for nuclear weapons. It seemed like you were yelling at a few points, try to watch for that. You had really good questions & good answers in the 2nd part regarding how the UN can't force other countries to enforce it. good pt about govt is not moral & survival is important. good pt about the balancing purpose.

Comments & Reason for Decision:

The Aff. presented the risks of nuclear power more effectively - even though the Neg. was convincing about jobs being a benefit of nuclear, it didn't seem to override safety.

Jenny - pts. & voice got stronger as she went. Talking a bit too fast & a little "mumbly" at 1st. Hammer on good pts more - like France & US using nuclear, maybe cite other countries as well. Also could have stressed that new nuclear technology safer. Maybe address more health problems left over from old accidents. Needed stronger evidence that nuclear safer. Good catch that Chernobyl not "within last decade".

Linnea - Morality still somewhat subjective - to me not your strongest argument. But your safety contentions were supported more. Good professionalism; advice for both speakers would be to stay more how you were towards the end of the round - i.e., speak more like a conversation, instead of rattling off a ton of facts (some pretty irrelevant). Remember if you say less, than what you say has more importance.

Comments &amp; Reason for Decision:

Neg. was a bit more convincing that nuclear power was becoming safer, & was a more valuable resource than it was a threat. It was a close debate though! I felt the neg. presented stronger sources - advice to both; if you have a key pt. & a good source, state & restate it for the judge.

Tryston - Your second half was much stronger. More believable as you became more conversational, not just spitting out facts (you were a little monotone at 1st, & didn't look up at me much). Advice: hammer on best points, like long term & future dangers of nuclear world-wide.

Natalia - Be careful to not sound "sharp" or snappy in your confidence - could put off a judge. That said though, you did a very good job of keeping your thoughts & main pts. organized. Best argument was future of nuclear being much safer. Would have liked more proof of countries converting to safer reactors, however. Clever to spotlight coal, even though wasn't stated as only alternative.
